Agenda item: Introduction – What are you most proud of (after one year of the project)?

- Seeing talk become action
- Natural conduits for activities to strengthen families; not requiring a lot of effort
- Appreciate being part of leadership efforts and working on the front end
- Excited that something happens in the meetings; open-mindedness of everyone; people are culturally competent; “These are the only meetings I would actually go to on purpose.”
- It’s comfortable, even with all the adults
- Cultural sensitivity is genuine; we hold each other accountable
- Continuous youth engagement; they are empowered
- True investment in the work
- Commitment of individuals to attend consistently and contribute
- It’s real, it’s genuine; people have the experience and are actually working with TAY
- Proud of the process; intersection of agencies, school systems and individuals is working
- Commitment of the group; people come back
- Everyone’s voice is respected
- This group has done its very best to include youth voice, continuing to invite and engage youth throughout the year
